

Come celebrate Ohop Creek
with us!

Ohop Groundbreaking: Continuing the Restoration

Join us to celebrate the largest salmon restoration project in the Nisqually Watershed!

The Nisqually Land Trust, the Nisqually Indian Tribe, and the South Puget Sound Salmon Enhancement Group invite you to break ground with us on the next phase of the Ohop Creek Restoration Project - construction of 1.5 miles of new salmon-friendly creek and restoration of 80 acres of floodplain forest.

Saturday, July 12, 2014
10 am to 1 pm
Ohop Valley near Eatonville, WA

10 am: Tours of the restoration
11 am: Groundbreaking
11:30 am: Salmon bake

Thank you to our generous funders and partners, including Washington Department of Ecology, Washington Salmon Recovery Funding Board, Natural Resource Conservation Service, Puget Sound Partnership, and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Space is limited and registration is free but required.

To register and receive directions to the event please contact Nikki Dizon at staff@nisquallylandtrust.org or 360.489.3400.
www.nisquallylandtrust.org

Photo Credit: Laurie Foster Fait